

ELIZABETH B. LYALL, K.C.

EMAIL: elyall@cmbmediation.com

Elizabeth practiced law as trial counsel for 37 years. Elizabeth gained a broad background in many areas of the law and has a comprehensive understanding of the litigation process. As counsel, Elizabeth participated in hundreds of mediations, representing the interests of her clients. It was with this background that Elizabeth became a strong believer in the benefits of alternate dispute resolution.

Elizabeth began her transition from counsel to mediator in 2018 when she took formal mediation training and commenced dedicating a portion of her practice to mediating disputes. In 2022 Elizabeth left her law practice and joined CMB as a full-time mediator. Elizabeth is delighted to now dedicate all her working time to assisting parties to resolve their disputes through mediation.

Elizabeth's background includes thousands of hours of volunteer time spent on various law-related and community Boards and Committees. Elizabeth was awarded a Canadian Bar Association Community Service Award in recognition of her years of charitable service. As well, for 10 years she volunteered as an adjunct professor at UBC Law School, where she taught Civil Procedure.

Elizabeth's broad legal and experiential background has positioned her well to assist parties in many areas including insurance (life, disability, AD&D, creditor, critical illness, fire, product liability, and occupier's liability), transportation (railway, maritime, and motor vehicle), professional liability, and general contract disputes. In her mediation practice, Elizabeth frequently handles cases involving employment disputes, host liability, medical malpractice, defamation, estates, and sexual assault.

In her free time, Elizabeth enjoys the company of her husband, children and friends; cooking; hosting events; skiing at Whistler in the winter; power boating in the summer; and travelling.
